"The proposed plan by which the Metropolitan Trust Company was to lend to the Oriental Bank enough money to pay off its creditors would have been a violation of the State Banking laws," Attorney-General Jackson said to-day in reply to the statement of Philip, Beckman & Menken, attorneys for the bank, ridiculing his action in securing the appointment of receivers.

"The Oriental Bank was a rotten institution, and had been rendered so by those in the inside," Mr. Jackson continued, "and that was the reason the New York Clearing House refused to carry it longer. Unlike the other banks, they had absolutely no plan for resumption, never had a plan for resumption, and, in fact, its officers had been peddling its assets on the street for over a month.

"The Oriental people had endeavored to get two or three different big trust companies to take over their assets, and had been turned down. The counsel for the Banking Department told me that the Metropolitan Trust Company was not large enough to swing any deal that involved the immediate paying off of the creditors of the Oriental Bank.

Limited by Laws.

"The banking laws limit the amount any banking institution can lend an individual or a corporation, and the liability of the Oriental Bank was in excess of the amount of a loan that the Metropolitan Trust Company could legally make. This plan contemplated the immediate payment to the New York Clearing House of about $2,500,000, but it did not contemplate the immediate payment of the depositors of the bank.

"No time was fixed within which the depositors were to be paid. It would have been a serious question if they would ever have been paid.

"This bank closed on Jan. 31 pursuant to a resolution of its Board of Directors after it had been kept open long enough to let a lot of the insiders get their money out. The later effort to liquidate and dissolve the corporation by a method not provided for in the statutes would have been very convenient for those who might de-

MARTYRED PRIEST
LIES IN STATE IN PATERSON CHURCH

Body of Father Heinrichs, Received by Franciscans, Is Viewed by Throngs.

PATERSON, N. J., Feb. 23.—The body of Rev. Leo Heinrichs, who was slain by an Anarchist while giving communion last Sunday in St. Elizabeth's, in Denver, was brought to this city on an Erie train, arriving at 10:15 A. M. to-day. A leg throng was at the station, in which were delegations from the various Catholic societies of Paterson, the latter acting as an escort on the way to the monastery of the Franciscan Fathers, where the body was taken.

Deep reverence was shown by everybody, all idols being carried away. The body of Father Heinrichs was lifted from the funeral car and placed in a casket.

When the funeral procession reached the monastery the body of the martyred priest was carried into the church, where a gunt composed of delegates from the Catholic societies immediately took their places about the casket. The body will be changed at intervals, but maintained constantly until the burial in Monday.

During the day great crowds visited the church where Father Heinrichs lay in state. Many knew the priest personally when he was a pastor here, and a number of touching scenes were witnessed. The body will lie in state until to-morrow afternoon.

Rev. Joseph Busson, who succeeded Father Heinrich as pastor of St. Bonaventure's Church, was present at a meeting of the Catholic Societies where arrangements were made for the funeral, and he said that the plan of the Franciscan Fathers had agreed to the Societies to have the funeral ceremonies public and on an elaborate scale instead of private and in accordance with the rule of the Franciscan order.

INDICTED WOMAN GOES BACK TO JAIL

Bondsmen Surrender Mrs. Grace Cooper, Charged with Killing Husband.

Mrs. Grace Cooper, who was indicted for murder in the second degree on the charge of having killed her husband, James Cooper, and has been out on $5,000 bail since January, 1907, was surrendered to the District-Attorney of Richmond County today by her bondsmen and taken to jail.

The reason her bondsmen, Edward Donnelly and Henry O'Tourique, give is that they need their money. When the woman was released on bond she left Staten Island, where she had lived all her life, and moved to Brooklyn. She

LAWYER-FORGERS DEATH NOTICE TAKEN AS RUSE

Alderdice Fled While on Bail After Fraud on Dead Client.

That the reported death of James A. Alderdice, the lawyer, who is a fugitive from justice, with an eighteen-year sentence hanging over his head, is a fake for the purpose of throwing detectives off his track is the belief expressed to-day at the office of District Attorney Harry J. Warner.

Alderdice was convicted in 1904 of having forged deeds to property owned by Mrs. Mary J. Oliver, an aged resident of Harlem, whose estate he settled. After his conviction the case went to higher courts, and Alderdice was released on $15,000 bail. He fled before the Court of Appeals had affirmed his conviction. The property connected with the forgery was valued at $300,000.

The District Attorney's office got a tip several weeks ago that Alderdice had disguised himself, grown a mustache and was living in Los Angeles, Cal. Detective Flood, of the Jerome squad, left this city for the Pacific Coast a week ago to bring back a prisoner to this city. He was instructed to stop at Los Angeles and try to locate Alderdice. The rumor reached friends of the fugitive lawyer, it is said, and was a surprise to them, for they had heard he was last seen in Japan.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Alderdice, a sister, who was made the beneficiary in property which her brother's forgery had transferred out of possession of Mrs. Oliver, was a school teacher at Rocky Point, L. I. Yesterday it came out that she had taken a week's leave of absence, saying that she was to attend her brother's funeral. Charles E. Le Barbier, counsel for Alderdice at his trial, received this letter:

"Dear Sir: You may have wondered why I had become of my brother and why he never returned. Poor fellow, he could not. When he died I know not it is a shame that an innocent man should have been hounded to death by the law. Sincerely,

"E. ALDERDICE"

Robert Marshall, an older merchant of Staten Island, father-in-law of Alderdice, signed the bond for $15,000, which he forfeited. George R. Simpson, lawyer for the fugitive's wife, said that since her husband's disappearance Mrs. Alderdice has worked as a stenographer in a Park Row law office. She quit two months ago and has not been heard from since she skipped. Today it is heard from since by her former employers.

"I can hardly bring myself to believe the story of Alderdice's death," said Lawyer Simpson. "I have not heard a word from him since he skipped three years ago. Alderdice was a mysterious character.

"His friends, who have sent a circular broadcast describing Alderdice, with Bertillon measurements and photographs, feel that the yarn of his death is a cock and bull story to pull the wool over the eyes of the authorities."

The Superintendent of Banks reported to me on Feb. 4 that it was unsafe to reopen the First Oriental Bank to continue business. The statute provides that, upon receiving such report, the state must suspend the license of the corporation through the appointment of a receiver. I waited nearly a month for the bank to submit a feasible plan for resumption, and the receiver stated it was proposed that the shareholders be allowed to name the receivers instead of having them appointed by the court.

The Receivers.

The Carnegie Trust Company and Henry Schneider, the joint receivers named by Justice Pitzeck to-day, filed a petition with the court to dissolve the real estate man who is a close personal friend of Charles F. Murphy.

Former Chief Justice Alton B. Parker is a stockholder and director of the Carnegie Trust Company, and Judge Fred Parker is Secretary of the Trust Company, which, while a new concern, is now seeking to do business with some success.

Mixed Pickles.

Edwin Markham, at a dinner, said of mixed metaphors: "When I was teaching in Los Angeles I used to read every week a little country paper whose editor's metaphors were an unending succession of mixed metaphors." This editor wrote of a contemporary:

James Cooper, the woman's husband, was killed by a knife thrust in the abdomen in November, 1906. He and his wife were married in the twelfth anniversary of their marriage at that time. Cooper lived twelve hours after being taken to the hospital, and in his last morient statement said his wife had stabbed him. Mrs. Cooper's trial is set for June.

KNICKERBOCKER CASE GOES OVER AGAIN.

Week Given for Superintendent of Banks to Examine Trust Company's Affairs.

There was another postponement today in the matter of the receivership of the Knickerbocker Trust Company when the case came up before Justice Clark in the Supreme Court at St. George's Island Island. The Court adjourned the proceedings for one week in order to allow Clark Williams, Superintendent of Banks, to finish his examination of the company's affairs and report.

Miss Aldridge could not be found at Rocky Point, L. I., to-day.

THE CLOTHES SHOW.

An event of the coming week of interest to all men and all women who have pride in the appearance of their men-folk, is the Clothes Show, which will be in every sense an exhibition. The new styles in men's clothes for spring and summer will be shown on forms, and in living models.

The garments will not be on sale. Separate lists will be devoted exclusively to the style display.

There will be shown over 120 models of the most famous designers in America, and nearly 500 different fabric designs from the leading mills of America and in America.

Fabrics for this spring are so different from former years, newer colors, new textures, and new weaves, that coloring and designs that the men who name them, having exhausted all other means, have turned to the aid of their names. So at the Clothes Show you will see the "Elephant stripes," the "Tiger tans," the "Zebra stripes," etc.

Members of the Clothes' Association, will hold the International Exhibition at the Hotel Astor next week, when the Clothes Show a special attraction.

The exhibition will be free, the object of the Association being to offer the public generally an opportunity to see all the new styles long before they will be had at tailors' or clothiers' or to be seen in the window of a store.

The Clothes Show will be open daily from Monday morning until Saturday night, from 10 o'clock to 10 o'clock.

it often when once they get started."
